Overview

Post & Schell has represented insurers in reinsurance transactions and disputes, and the matters handled by our attorneys include a wide variety of underlying risks. Our attorneys have a comprehensive understanding of the industry and the needs of reinsurance clients. As these disputes have become more commonplace and contentious over the years, Post & Schell attorneys have been involved in disputes extending to those under facultative certificates and reinsurance treaties. We have been involved in every aspect of these disputes, including among other things, the drafting of commutation agreements where appropriate.

Post & Schell attorneys can provide advice and counsel in representing clients in litigation and alternative dispute resolution, as well as in determining when more creative solutions to the claims at issue might be appropriate. Our attorneys proactively work towards a positive outcome for their clients, whether the claim comes in prior to litigation, or after an arbitration or litigation has begun.
